Important information about filing your 2014 federal tax return

You may be eligible for an Identity Protection Personal Identification Number

To expand the protection of taxpayers from identity theft, the IRS is offering you the opportunity to receive an Identity Protection Personal Identification Number (IP PIN).

We selected you because our records show that we placed an identity theft indicator on your account or your account met other specific account criteria.

If you want to participate in this program, see the information under "What you need to know" shown on the right.

If you do not wish to participate you don't need to do anything. You can file as normal.

What you need to know

- You may be eligible to receive a unique 6-digit number called an Identity IP PIN.
- The IP PIN will verify that the tax return we receive is really from you.
- Starting January 14, 2015, you can use the link shown below, verify your identity, and retrieve your IP PIN for tax year 2014:

www.irs.gov/getanippin

Note: If you choose to retrieve an IP PIN, you must use this number to file your 2014 tax return.

- If you use a tax professional or software to prepare your return, you will be instructed where to place your IP PIN.

What to Remember about your IP PIN

- You will need your IP PIN to file your tax return.
- You will not be able to e-file if you don't include your IP PIN.
- Processing of your paper return may be delayed if you lose your IP PIN or don't include it on your return.

Additional information

- Visit www.irs.gov/cp01f or contact us at for information or questions about the IP PIN.
